

Assisted living, skilled nursing leader taps Tapcheck for better EWA

Background

As competition for caregivers intensified, Lionstone Healthcare recognized that earned wage access had become less of a perk and more of an expectation in the industry. Employees increasingly sought out employers who offered some form of on-demand pay, and some candidates were turning down jobs entirely at organizations that couldn't provide it.

Lionstone had offered EWA previously through another provider, but the experience was far from seamless — requiring the company to front wages before reimbursement, creating complex reconciliation challenges and ultimately leading them to shut the program down.

When Tapcheck approached Lionstone, the value proposition was immediately clear. Tapcheck's deduction-based model removed the financial burden from Lionstone and saved them hours of manual work as they continued to grow.

Testimonial

"From a CNA level — a certified nursing assistant — a kid gets sick, they need to go get a prescription. This is a great way to get the money to do it. It's so much better than using a check cashing place or a payday lender."

People want and need their money more frequently than payday. Why can't we give that to them? This is a great product — you can see on the back end exactly how it's paid, it's very easy to use, and the employees are getting charged very little for it. It's very convenient for them. I've already recommended Tapcheck to others in the industry."
